LAMINATED PANELS WITH A PURPOSE

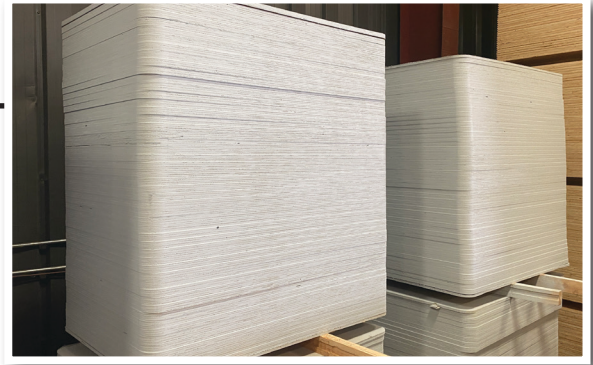

Custom Carrier Boards

Logistics can be challenging. Having the right tools when it comes to material handling within production and distribution facilities simplifies the task. NUDO's team of design engineers will work hard to customize and manufacture wooden carrier boards to meet your internal inventory transfer needs. We understand that these carrier boards are the work horses of your facility and need to be designed for strength, integrity and ease of use. At NUDO, we take the time to understand your systems and fabricate the right engineered tools and solutions to meet your specific needs.

DURABLE AND LONG-LASTING

At NUDO, we understand the structural properties of engineered wood products and are able to produce carrier boards that are extremely durable and long-lasting. We offer various overlay surface thicknesses and finishes and are able to round corners and seal panel edges to increase density and strength.

This pre-engineered combination of laminated materials offers higher surface wear-ability than plain plywood and withstands more weight and pressure without failure. We press and cut, laminate and press our panels to meet specific load sizes, thicknesses and shapes to provide you an economical solution.
